Translation

The snares of death compassed me round about and the pains of hell gat hold upon me.
I shall find trouble and heaviness, and I will call upon the name of the Lord: O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.
(Book of Common Prayer: Ps. 116, vv.3–4)

Editorial Conventions

The nomenclature of the voice-parts follows the Tudor convention.
The original clef, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves.
Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned.
Ligatures are denoted by the sign .
Repeat signs in the underlay of source A are indicated by text in italics. Variants in the manuscript sources are noted in the commentary below.

Notes on the Readings of the Sources

In the 1591 print the first word appears as Circundederunt in all voices. Since this spelling, which is also encountered in some Continental settings of this text, was presumably Byrd's choice, it has not been changed to the more usual circumdederunt, although the latter spelling is found in sources C, E and F.

With the possible exception of E, none of the manuscript sources was copied from the 1591 print. They probably preserve an earlier version of the motet. The variants mostly concern underlay, but all manuscript sources, insofar as the relevant voices survive, share the same rhythmical variant in the Mean at bars 63–4 and the Countertenor 2 at bars 82–4. At bar 32 the editorial flat is explicitly given in sources D and F. At bar 35 the two surviving manuscript Ct2 parts give a natural for both the first and second E. The second natural is not in the print, implying that the semibreve reverts to an E flat. The edition follows the manuscripts, but it is possible that Byrd changed his mind about this note when preparing the motet for publication. In the Bass at bars 79–80 E has a variant not shared by the other surviving manuscript Bass part, C, which here agrees with the print.

In the notes below, each reference to a bar or group of bars is separated by an oblique stroke. Within these references multiple readings in the same voice are separated by commas and readings in different voices by semicolons. The order within each entry is: 1) bar number; 2) voice; 3) source(s) 4) reading of the source(s). For extended references subsequent bar numbers are in brackets. Readings are expressed at the pitches and in the note values of the edition. Pitches are in capital letters, preceded by a number where necessary, e.g. <sup>2</sup>A = second note A in the bar.
