Translation

1. Be present, O Holy Trinity, equal in splendour, one deity, you who are of all things the beginning without end.
2. May the heavenly army laud, adore and proclaim you, and may the world's threefold frame [heaven, Earth, hell] speak well of you forever.
3. And we, too, your humble servants, are here adoring you: let our suppliant prayers and desires be joined to the hymns of heaven.
4. We believe you to be the one light, the same that we revere as threefold. You whom we call Alpha and Omega, let all living souls praise.
5. Praise be to the unbegotten Father. Praise to his only-begotten Son. Praise be to the Holy Spirit, to God the three and one. Amen.

Liturgical Function

In the pre-Reformation Use of Sarum Adesto sancta Trinitas was the hymn at First Vespers, Matins and Second Vespers on Trinity Sunday and on the three following days.

Editorial Conventions

The nomenclature of the voice-parts follows the Tudor convention.

The original clef, staff signature, mensuration symbol and first note of each part are shown on the prefatory staves. Editorial accidentals are placed above the notes concerned.

Ligatures are denoted by the sign .

Repeat signs in the underlay have been expanded using italicised text.

The lost Tenor part has been reconstructed in small notation. The editor is grateful to Magnus Williamson for permission to adopt much of his reconstruction in Early English Church Music 54.

Notes on the Readings of the Sources

In the references below the order within each entry is: 1) bar number(s); 2) voice(s); 3) reading of the source (with any subsequent bar numbers in brackets). Pitches are in capital letters, preceded by a number where necessary, e.g. ²F = second note F in the bar. Underlay syllables are italicised. The sign ≈ denotes an underlay repetition sign.
