

Anonymous Author, apparently first appearing in Ingalls 1805
87. 87. Irregular

The Enquirer

Transcribed from Ingalls' Christian Harmony, 1805.

D minor

Jeremiah Ingalls, 1805

Tr. ⁵

1. Oh! that some one would tell me, Is this the road that Christians go? Hark, and hear what has befell me, Now my heart is filled with woe.
2. Oft with darkness I'm sur-roun-ded, Peace nor comfort can I find; If I hear the gos-pel sound, it Brings no com-fort to my mind.

T. ⁸

3. O! the sin, that's in me lur-king, Often brings me very low; Satan still with me wor-king, Is this the road that Christians go?
4. If Christ Je-sus, by his spi-rit, Took possession of my heart, Could I not then plead his me-rit, Should I from his way de-part?

B.

5. But can this be all de-lu-sion, Which by turns I think I feel? Who can tell the whole conclusion? To the Lord I must ap-peal.
6. But if bread of life's been broken, And my heart renewed by grace, Je-sus, wilt thou as a to-ken, Let me see thy smi-ling face?